

I believe it is important that the FCC continue to regulate broadband services. The companies that built the Internet should not be wiped away by large telephone monopolies. The independent companies provide greater service and accountability. I have had service from a large company and it was awful! I then went to a small independent and I received better service at a better price! In the past deregulating large industries has only increased fees for the users and given the public worse service. Please continue regulatory review of the large companies' broadband pricing to independent ISPs. Thank you, do the right thing for the consumer!
